

CARIBBEAN ARCHITECTURE

Crystal clear water gleaming azure and jade. Lush, languorous palms draping powdery white sand. Exotic creatures and bountiful reefs. The islands of the Caribbean are unmistakable—and so is the lifestyle. Spend warm beach days lounging to the breezy whisper of waves on the shore, or cool nights dancing to easy reggae rhythms and mellow steel drums. Browse bustling markets bouqueted with color or relish succulent fresh fruits and fragrant flowers. Explore a rich colonial history, discover vibrant art and culture, and mingle with the generous and welcoming people that make each island unique.

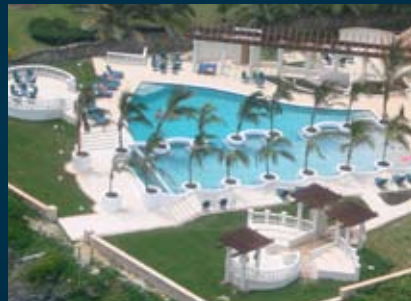

Of course, it helps to have a partner who can help you realize those dreams. At BlueBike, that means beginning with comprehensive services like master planning and design for whatever your project: resorts, boutique hotels, or residential villas. It also means understanding the Caribbean and what it takes to create architecture there. That knowledge and expertise has enabled our studio of architectural, visual, and creative designers to develop a streamlined process to incorporate every phase of your project, from conceptual design through final construction.

Our combination of cogent, creative design and matchless service makes completing your project as effortless for you as possible—just the way dreams should be.

Building internationally can be complicated, but BlueBike's years of experience in the Caribbean allows us to remain devoted to the entirety of your project. Our on-going relationships with governing bodies, Embassies, and the Caribbean Consulate keeps us informed about codes, restrictions, and specialized regional construction techniques. We can easily manage importing from the United States with our experience in international shipping and customs.

We've also developed relationships with Caribbean general contractors and local craftsmen to facilitate work on-site, and we're familiar with the supply and cost of everything from tile and stone to roofing and lumber. Our acquaintance with local equipment suppliers rounds out your project with plumbing, electrical, heating and cooling systems, fitness machines, water features, sun screening, and much more. In other words, we have the knowledge and experience to respond attentively to all your architectural needs. The result: a Caribbean paradise as distinctive as your dreams.

If you're ready to wake up to those dreams, or simply interested in more information about how BlueBike can help, please contact us.
